THE UNBOUND PROJECT IS...

presented by:

michigan

a unique project that addresses one of the world's greatest human rights issue - human trafficking. Due to the heinous nature of human trafficking, building awareness about this issue is often unattractive. The topic of human trafficking is disturbing and often may emotionally paralyze the general public. Recognizing that the creative arts are universally inspiring, we plan to use creative means to communicate poignant themes related to human trafficking, as well as raise funds for the Michigan Abolitionist Project (MAP).

The project will engage Michigan artists in creating a collection of music and art unique to this project, including: recording and producing a CD of original work, a limited edition album, publishing a special edition of MAP's Unbound Magazine, creation of art pieces, and a photographic exhibit. A celebration-event to release the CD, highlight the creative work, and auction the art will take place on Sunday September 7, 2014 at the Crofoot Ballroom in Pontiac, MI. During the project, our artists will be introduced to the stories about real victims and survivors in Michigan. These stories will inspire their work, and we hope their work will educate and inspire our community. Funds raised through the Unbound project will go toward addressing human trafficking in Michigan
